DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS

History and Growth of a Patriotic Order of Order of Daughters of Veteran grew out of an organization known as the Ruby Scal, a society among the "A" Gram-mar School girls of Massillon, O. On the 30th of May, 1885, five of these girls on their return from the eemetery, where they had assisted in decorating the soldiers' graves, decided to organize an Order for the purpose of assisting the Grand Army on Memorial Day. On the 5th of June, 1885, the order of "Ruby Seal" was changed to that of "Daughters of Veterans." At that time the following was adopted:

NAME. This association shall be known as the National Alliance, Daughters of Vet-erans of the United States of America.

PRINCIPLES. We believe firmly in Almighty God, and fully realize that it was under his benevolent Providence that the free institutions of our land, consecrated to us by the service and blood of our fathers and brothers, have been preserved, and the integrity and life the Nation maintained.

True loyalty to the Government of the United States of America, based upon a respect and devotion and fidelity to its Constitution and laws, made evident by our disapprobation of anything that is dis-loyal, treasonable, or rebellious, or any-thing that will, in any manner, impair the efficiency and permanency of our Na-that the amount expended reaches many thousands of dollars, and we are willing to compare our work with any organiza-tion (of equal numbers) that has for its nds and aims the welfare of the veterans ends and aims the welfare of the veterans.

We feel that we have come to stay, for we have received the indorsement and encouragement of the Grand Army of the Republic, which has been brought about by our assistance and performance of tender services on Memorial Day, and in doing honor to those who fell on the battlefields, or who have since answered their last roll call.

In conclusion, let me ask every veteran's daughter to join our ranks.

A TIN SOLDIER.

His Encounter with a Boy Who Itched to Put Down the Rebellion.

"Corporal of the Guard! Post 4-11-44! Corporat of the Guard: Fost 4-11-44.
This was the agonizing cry from the post held by one of our newest and freshest recruits. This cry was followed by the recruit emptying his carbine, one shot after another, in quick succession, holding the advancing enemy in check for a mo ment's time.

But I am a little ahead of my story, and will go back and begin at the beginning. We were in Winter quarters at Harrods ourg. Ky., with not a known enemy within 20 miles of our camp. A bunch of recruits had arrived on the forenoon of the day I speak about. One of these recruits was speak about. One of these recruits was a clean-cut, deep-grained boy of about 18 Summers, whose anxiety to get right into harness and put down the rebellion was absolutely painful to the older soldiers. This recruit was assigned to Capt. Mart Schuler's company. Capt. Schuler was the life of the regiment. There was never a practical joke found wandering around the camp that it was not entirely safe to phans when helpless and in distress, and to aid and assist those in our Order who are worthy and needy.

To inculcate a love of country and patriotism among our sex; to promote equal rights and universal liberty to all; and to apply the camp that it was not entirely safe to the camp that it was not entirely safe to the camp that it was not entirely safe to the camp that it was not entirely safe to the camp that it was not entirely safe to the camp that it was not entirely safe to the camp that it was not entirely safe to say Mart Schuler had a string tied to it. The newest recruit, by good chance, fell into Schuler's hands, and was duly ininto Schuler's hands, and was duly in-structed in the game of war. A few days before Capt. Schuler had got possession of a tin soldier, which had done duty as a sign at a hardware store in Har-rodsburg. This tin soldier was some-what battered, but being life-size, seemed to suggest a practical joke of some kind to the fertile mind of Capt. Schuler, and he rigged this figure up among the cedars at the edge of our camp, and laid a series of cords and ropes from the tin soldler to a point far inside the camp. Nearly every-body in the regiment had noticed beforehand that there would be some fun at nightfall.

Just at dark the clean-cut, deep-grained boy, just from his home, chafing with These daughters, and those of the Sons of Veterans, upon arriving at the age of 15. and so on in genealogical order. The eligibility can never be changed.

In December of the year 1885 a committee of five members of Hart Post, 134. Ohio Department of the Grand Army of the Republic, secured the articles of incorporation for this new society.

The articles of incorporation were signed and read at Columbus, O., the 12th day of December, 1885. (That day has since been called the National birthday of the Order of the Daughters of Veterans. United States of America, and is celebrated as such by all Daughters wherever a society has been formed.)

The 20th Century Kitchen.

Coal and wood will be superseded by electricity in the 20th century kitchen. The electric oven bakes bread ideally, and sachusetts is the banner State in Tents and membership.

The second National Convention, held at Massillon, O., in July, 1891, brought together a large number of enthusiastic and patriotic Daughters. At that Convention Mollie Robertson, of Keokuk, Iowa, was elected President and M. Rose Jansen Secretary. The Order had by this time grown to such dimensions that it was considered advisable to hold its future National Conventions at same time and place as those of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The electric oven bakes bread ideally, and meats prepared by it do not require watching or bastjing, while broiling or frying may be done in superior style. The electric chafing-dish is attachable to an ordinary light wire; the current is turned and immediately the oysters begin to stew or the eggs to frizzle. In the electric kitchen there will be no coal, no ashes, no smoke, no fuel, and not even a battery. The irons used for the family linen will be heated by electricity. In the cities tinned electricity will be delivered to consumers, the emptied batteries being taken away every day and replaced with full ones. Agricultural machines run by electricity are being introduced to the farmers, and there is even a device for the electrocution of weeds.
